

Participation in labor movement

Gatot Subagyo, who is one of the members of the Management Board of the Branch Leadership of the All Indonesia Workers Union (DPC SPSI) of Tangerang City and who is also the chairman of the alumni of the South Tangerang Democracy School, was one of the mobilizers of the recent action demanding a revision of the 2012 Minimum Wage (UMK). Together with other activities from among the workers, he took the initiative in designing and preparing this action by forming alliances among workers' unions in the region. This initiative was carried out together with 21 other alumni of the South Tangerang Democracy School. At the end of 2011, thousands of workers from the various factories in the three parts of Tangerang, namely, the District of Tangerang, the City of Tangerang and the City of South Tangerang, undertook this action, which involved closing the Jakarta – Merak Toll Road.

Their action was a form of protest directed at the Governor of Banten Province in order that the Minimum Wage for 2012 be revised from IDR 1,381 million per month to IDR 1,529 million per month. The result of the action was the announcement of a new Governor's Decree (SK Governor No. 561/Kep. 886-Huk/2011) about setting the minimum wage for all Districts and Cities in the Province of Banten for 2012.

Participation in anti corruption

With the establishment of TRUTH (Tangerang Public Transparency Watch), three alumni of the South Tangerang Democracy School became anti-corruption activists. The three alumni are Suhendar, Aru Wijayanto and Agil Nopembriyanto. The movement began with their enthusiasm in writing articles for the local mass media about public services and corruption. Efforts to distribute their ideas were sharpened by the holding of training concerning the APBD and anti corruption activities.

Besides that, TRUTH persevered in making investigations related to the findings of the Financial Auditing Body (BPK) in the 2010 financial reports of the Government of South Tangerang City. Activities involving meetings with the press were also carried out in an attempt to present the results of a study about suspected corruption of South Tangerang City's Social Assistance Funds, which amounted to IDR 4,782,245,000 in the budget year.

Writing Achievement of Democracy School Participants

An article written by a woman participant, Murtra Eka Mirianti, from the Ogan Ilir Democracy School has been published in the local media. In this article, which is entitled “Women and Local Democracy”, She put forward her views about the limited part played by women cadres in political parties, and the fact that they are often treated as merely constituting the numbers required to make up the required quota and are given non-strategic positions.

The following sentences are quoted from her article: “Several political parties give women a role as mere figures to meet the requirements stipulated by the law; women are often given positions as secretaries or treasurers or even less strategic positions in the refreshments section ... As a consequence, even though the quantity of women can be met, in terms of quality there is no significant increase, so it seems that the attempt has been made in vain” (Harian Vokal, South Sumatra, 26 July 2012).

By December 2012, there are 140 articles from participants and facilitators of SD North Aceh published in the media (printed and electronic; local, regional and national). was prepared on the initiative of the Community Committee (
KK

Tangerang
District; it commenced at the time when the Committee undertook research related to

District and from the research prepared an academic manuscript.

The outcome was that all factions in the DPRD agreed that the proposal should be passed on to a higher level (Pansus) and could be pushed to become a Regional Regulation in Tangerang
District.

It is almost certain that the Regional Regulation will be approved because all factions have given their approval, but according to Ahmad Bandi (
a member of the team of experts from the Community Committee of Tangerang
District for proposed Regional Regulations
the Regulation needs to be accompanied to the not reduced or changed. This means more hard work for the Community Committee of Tangerang

District if it is to escort the proposed Regional Regulation. Approximately 20 members of the
